SELECTED BOOKS AND BULLETINS

Animal Diseases

Culbertson, J. T. IMMUNITY AGAINST ANIMAL PARASITES. Columbia University Press, 1941. 448 C89

This book is well documented, an imposing list of authorities for statements appearing at the bottom of each page, and is written with the assumption that the reader is well trained in parasitology and immunology. It is divided into three parts: Natural resistance and acquired immunity, Immunity in specific diseases, and Applied immunology.

Dykstra, R. R. ANIMAL SANITATION AND DISEASE CONTROL. Interstate, 1942. 41 D99

Community Leaders, Material for

Garland, J. V., and Phillips, C. F. DISCUSSION METHODS. H. W. Wilson, 1940. 145.2 G18

This excellent book explains and illustrates various types of discussions: informal (group and committee), formal (panel, colloquy, open forum, symposium, debate), radio discussions, and methods in combination. In the appendices are hints for forum leaders, additional discussion methods, procedures in forums, discussion and propaganda analysis, and selected references.

Economics

Bunce, A. C. ECONOMIC NATIONALISM AND THE FARMER. Collegiate, 1938. 281.12 B88
This book is an analysis of the arguments in support of economic nationalism from the standpoint of the farmer and an attempt to present the probable results to him of a further development of economic nationalism whether it is the result of a foreign policy definitely planned to achieve an "America Self-contained," or whether it is the result of a gradual drifting into isolation due to a continuance of the traditional tariff policies of the past.

Bunce, A. C. ECONOMICS OF SOIL CONSERVATION. Iowa state college press, 1942. 56.7 B88

"In this book a well-informed soil-minded economist considers the interrelationships between the technological and the economic problems involved in soil conservation as an objective of social planning. Of the 12 chapters, the following deserve special mention: the relationship of rent to the elasticity of production and intensity of land use; exploitation of virgin fertility and the intensive and extensive margins; price changes and conservation; the individual and fertility maintenance; the individual and conservation when exploitation induces erosion or soil deterioration; society and conservation; methods of soil control over land use; problems of measurement in conservation planning; war and conservation; the formulation of public policy and action. This highly instructive book merits a careful reading by every intelligent man who has anything whatever to do with the formulation of policies relating to soil conservation and land use." Soil Science.

Pastor, E. X. "How To Live On A Reduced War Budget." 1942. 321 P26

"Manage your home economically and well for gracious and useful wartime living." This pamphlet contains chapters on making the most of your food, your clothing, your home, your equipment, your buying dollar, your time.

Tornborgh, B. V. THE FARM BOOKKEEPER: WITH INCOME TAX GUIDE. Judd, 1942. 30.61 T63

Though late to help with this year's income tax, this book will be helpful in setting up the kinds of records a farmer should keep to make it easier to figure next year's tax.
